

Good morning.

At this time of year, many of us are looking at our finances and thinking about credit, debt, RRSPs and other financial issues. We may be looking for more information or advice and are not sure where to turn.

Did you know that OSSTF/FEESO owns Educators Financial Group? Educators Financial Group offers our members free financial planning plus a wide selection of investing and lending products and services.

I have talked to many members, especially new ones, who have said they wished they'd heard about Educators Financial Group sooner so I wanted to send you information about one of the great advantages of being an OSSTF/FEESO member.

The attached documents can help you and your members and their families (as this membership advantage is also available to them) :

- Learn how Educators Financial Group has become the education community's financial specialist and can put more money back into your pockets.
- Find out how they can help you reduce interest payments on your debt – plus find out about a special $100 offer!
- Increase financial literacy by visiting www.educatorsfinancialgroup.ca and signing up for eNews to receive regular educator-specific financial tips.

Please share with members. We want to ensure that all our members know about Educators Financial Group before making important personal financial decisions.

KEN